James Hoffa Takes Over As Union President

Settlement of Court Suit Puts Union Boss At Head of Teamsters

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa took over as president of the giant Teamsters Union today on a compromise court settlement that wiped out charges he had been elected by a rigged convention.

Hoffa will have to work for at least a year with a three-man board of monitors. He is under no obligation, under the settlement, to take any of their advice, but the board must report to the court which retained jurisdiction over the case.

Hoffa said the Teamsters National Executive Board will meet here the first week in February to decide its stand on the AFL-CIO, which has expelled the Teamsters on corruption charges. The federation labeled Hoffa as a corrupting influence after Senate Rackets Committee disclosures linked him to alleged union fund abuses. It said the Teamsters can't re-enter the AFL-CIO so long as Hoffa is in power.

Will Ponder Next Move

"We will have to give some time and thought before we can decide at the next board meeting as to what will be our attitude toward the AFL-CIO," Hoffa said.

The settlement was reached in a suit brought by 13 New York members who alleged that union bosses had rigged the October convention at Miami Beach to make sure Hoffa was elected. Hoffa succeeds retiring President Dave Beck, himself linked to union racketeers' disclosures.

The compromise worked out by opposing counsel before Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts provided for naming the monitors and terminating a court ban which kept Hoffa and other officials elected with him from taking office. The union agreed to pay all legal costs for both sides.

Fail to Prove Contentions

Testimony already given in the case had been all in behalf of the plaintiffs. Much of it was to the effect that a number of delegates to the Miami Beach convention last October were improperly chosen under union rules. But there was no showing this was sufficient to have changed the election results. The defense was to have started Monday.

The Teamsters Union is to select one member of the monitoring, or

Cache of Firearms Uncovered at Home Of Blast Victim

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — A cache of firearms, dynamite caps, gunpowder and steel cutting equipment has been uncovered by Mahoning County deputies in the home of two men injured when their car was dynamited early Wednesday.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Frank Reese said Thursday he wanted to know where John Schuller and Mike Fedchina got the firearms and what they intended to do with them. Reese said the guns and other equipment were found at the Hillcrest Motel near Lowellville, operated by Schuller.

Schuller, 40, and Fedchina, 41, were reported in fair condition at South Side Hospital. They were injured when a dynamite charge ripped an automobile apart, as Schuller turned on the ignition. Edward Tabas, 41, of Youngstown, was blown clear of the car when the explosion went off. He was in the back seat of the 1955 Cadillac. Police have not learned why the car was dynamited or who was responsible.

Reds Reject Freedom Pleas

3 American Mothers Ask Release of Sons

HONG KONG (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai of Red China turned down today the plea of three American mothers for the release of their imprisoned sons, but he'd out the prospect of clemency later.

Peiping radio said Chou told the mothers, who flew to China to see their sons, that the government showed leniency to those who are well-behaved while serving sentences. He added that this policy applies to their sons.

The mothers presented their pleas through Mrs. Li Teh Chuan, Red Chinese health minister, and Red Cross president.

The mothers are Mrs. Ruth Redmond of Yonkers, N.Y.; Mrs. Jessie Fecteau of Lynn, Mass.; and Mrs. Mary Downey of New Britain, Conn. They are to leave Peiping Saturday for the United States.

Hugh Redman, a former Shanghai businessman, is serving a life sentence in a Shanghai prison on a charge of spying. Richard Fecteau is serving 20 years and John Downey life in a Peiping prison on spying charges. Mrs. Redmond visited Hugh in Shanghai before flying to Peiping to make her appeal.

Peiping radio broadcast a statement by Chi Feng, assistant director of the International Relations Department of the Chinese Red Cross, saying:

"The Premier fully understands the feelings behind your appeal but your sons have violated Chinese laws and must be dealt with accordingly."

The Chinese Red Cross in Shanghai had suggested to Mrs. Redmond that she go to Peiping to appeal.

Two Beloit Persons Hurt In Road Mishap

Two Beloit persons were hurt when their car went out of control, climbed an embankment and overturned on the Leffingwell Road, just south of Canfield, at 12:50 a.m. today.

Injured were: The driver, Shelby Stanley, 20, severe abrasions of both arms. Shirley Morris, 16, minor head injury.

The victims were treated at the Youngstown South Side Hospital. Stanley was traveling at a high rate of speed when the wheel slipped out of his hands, causing him to lose control, state highway patrolmen said.

The driver will be cited for reckless operation, they added.

House Committee Calls U.S. Army Research Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee forged ahead today with its investigation of the military structure as a Senate subcommittee called for a "decisive action" on a 17-point program to modernize the nation's defenses.

Meanwhile, Senate leaders were expected to push action on a $1,410,000,000 emergency defense money bill which the House approved by a 388-0 call vote.

Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, Army chief of research and development, was called by the House Armed Services Committee to testify behind closed doors.

He created a stir earlier this month when he decided to retire March 31 in protest against certain defense department policies. Impressed by Testimony

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) told a newsman he has been impressed by testimony already received which he said indicated there has been no harmful effect on the missiles program from interservice rivalry, as Gavin contends.

The Preparedness subcommittee listed reorganizing and strengthening the defense department among its 17 recommendations, but took no position on just how it should be done.

Other recommendations — all worded broadly — included stepping up production of intermediate (1,500-mile) range ballistic missiles and the Atlas intercontinental (5,000-mile) ballistic missile, and accelerating development of the Titan ICBM.

They called for modernizing and strengthening the nation's manned bomber force and for dispersing it more widely. And they proposed more effort in developing antissile missiles and expanding the nation's submarine fleet.

Approved Unanimously The 7-point program was approved unanimously by the Senate subcommittee as it wound up more than 100 days of investigating U. S. defenses in the wake of Russia's earth satellite firings. Action already has been taken on a number of the points on the subcommittee list.

Later in the day the Senate approved

Strike Ties Up NYC Railroad

Conductors Ordered To Return to Work

NEW YORK (AP) — A wildcat strike of conductors against the New York Central Railroad began today in a tangle of confusion early today by a sudden wildcat strike of conductors on the division between Albany and Buffalo, N. Y.

The national union headquarters in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, quickly termed the unauthorized walkout unauthorized and ordered the conductors back to work immediately.

In Rochester, N.Y., union leaders complied promptly. Federal Dist. Judge Stephen W. Brennan signed an order in Utica to restrain the strike.

The railroad termed the strike illegal and said it had delayed or caused cancellation of a number of trains.

The Twentieth Century Limited, pride of the Central, was one of the name trains immediately affected. It was due in New York from Chicago at 9:30 a.m., but officials could not say when it would reach here, if at all.

The strike was called at 4 a.m. by Division 54 of the Order of Railway Conductors and Brakemen. Conductors were reported

Police Seek Trail Of Missing Boys

Six teen-age Salem boys suspected of burglarizing two Salem business establishments Wednesday night are believed heading for California in a stolen car.

A state-wide pick-up order has been issued for the boys, Police Chief George T. Earley reported today.

A total of $54 in small change and other equipment was taken from the Recreation Billiards at 525 E. State St. and the Salem Concrete and Supply Co. on W. Wilson St. between midnight and 7:30 a.m. Wednesday.

The boys are believed to be the ones who bought $2 worth of gasoline at a Lisbon service station early Thursday morning, paying for the fuel in dimes. They were riding in a car later found abandoned in Wooster, police said.

Several youths, believed to be the same ones, bought $12 worth of gas and other articles in Mineralva at 4:18 Wednesday, also paying in dimes.

The Ohio Highway Patrol reported that the car was found abandoned in Wooster at 10:40 p.m. Thursday.

The direction of the boys' flight was inferred from stolen cars were reported and later found abandoned in Lancaster and Chillicothe.

One of the boys had said he was leaving for California Wednesday morning, police learned.

UAW Delegates Expected to OK Strike Fund Hike

Special Convention Approves Reuther's Profit-Sharing Plan

DETROIT (AP) — A special convention of the United Auto Workers was expected today to approve a 50-million-dollar strike fund to back up 1958 demands on car manufacturers.

Debate on a proposal to build up the present 24-million-dollar strike fund with increased assessments got under way after the convention overwhelmingly approved UAW President Walter P. Reuther's profit-sharing plan.

Special assessments of $3 a month, in addition to basic dues of $3 a month, to be levied during March, April and May, will raise an estimated 16 million dollars, said UAW Secretary - Treasurer Emil Mazey.

Then we will have 40 million dollars in the strike fund in the early part of June," Mazey said.

Talks to Start April 1st The UAW's present three-year contracts with General Motors, Ford and Chrysler run out around June 1. Bargaining talks are due to start around April 1.

Mazey said it also was proposed to authorize the union's International Executive Board to borrow money "if we need it." He estimated that the UAW's local unions have 15 million dollars in liquid assets.

"We believe we could borrow 10 million dollars from our locals to make a 50-million-dollar fund," Mazey said.

The delegates also were asked to authorize the International Executive Board to mortgage the union's property if necessary to borrow money from banks.

Will Give Money to Locals Under the strike assistance program, the international union will provide the locals with money to maintain strike kitchens. Mazey said, "The average cost of maintaining a strike kitchen, based on past experience, is about 31 cents per week per member."

Mazey estimated the strike fund has paid out 25 million dollars to 243 local unions for strike assistance in the past three years.

The bargaining program approved by the convention contains a basic set of demands including a general wage increase, to be made on all companies. The profit-sharing plan is included in supplementary demands to be made on companies earning enough money to allow a division of profits about 10 per cent on net capital before taxes. Workers would get a one-quarter slice under the union's plan.

Fairfield School Petition Hearing Set

LISBON — Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp has set next Friday at 1 p.m. as the hearing date on the mandamus action filed against the County Board of Education by Thomas Hess of Columbiana RD 2.

Hess represents the Fairfield Township group which requested transfer of its school district to the Columbiana village school system but was refused by the county board on the grounds that the transfer petition did not bear the required number of signatures.

This is the third mandamus action to be filed against the board. In the Elkrum dispute, Judge Sharp ruled the petition had the necessary signatures of 75 per cent of the qualified electors, and the petition was forwarded to Columbus after the county board refused to approve transfer of the district to the Lisbon system.

A hearing on a Hill Crest petition seeking transfer from Yellow Creek School District to the Wells-ville system is pending. No date has been set by the court for a hearing in the latter case.

Electronic Shield to Guard Planes

New U.S. Defense System Reported

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) — An American supersonic bomber now flying can surround itself with a shield of electrons to ward off any attacking missiles.

The automatic defense system being built into Convair's new 1,130-m.p.h. B58 Hustler is one of the most spectacular applications of electronics in defense, President Don G. Mitchell of Sylvania Electronic Products, Inc., said last night.

It has flown and it works," Mitchell told reporters after addressing the San Francisco Council of the West Coast Electronic Manufacturers Assn.

The shield will increase the attack effectiveness of manned supersonic bombers.

A report on how it works and how it has been tested awaits security clearance in the Pentagon. In essence, however, the shield system generates an electric magnetic field around the aircraft that fouls up, disrupts and jams the guiding systems of approaching missiles.

The electron shield systems are in production at Sylvania's Buffalo, N.Y., laboratory. Advance research and development were carried out at the company's electronics division.

Hearing Postponed On Bishop Ruling

LISBON — County Prosecutor G. William Brokaw received notice Thursday that a hearing on his motion to appeal an appellate court ruling in the Dallas Bishop Case, scheduled for Thursday at 9 a.m. by the Ohio Supreme Court in Columbus, has been postponed until Thursday, Feb. 20, at 9 a.m.

Defense Attorney Hugo Alexander of Steubenville who has a court case in West Virginia, on the day the Bishop hearing was scheduled in Columbus asked for a continuance which was granted.

Bishop, a patrolman implicated in the 1956 East Liverpool police burglary ring scandal, first pleaded guilty to the indictments and agreed to testify for the state.

He gave conflicting statements on the witness stand during two trials, however, thereby scuttling the state's case. Following the last trial, Bishop tried to change his plea to innocent, but Judge Joel H. Sharp denied his motion and sentenced him to the penitentiary.

The sentence was subsequently overruled by the Appellate Court.

Country's New Regime Names Civilian Cabinet

Nation's Army Rulers Don't Have Support Of Street Fighters

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Venezuela's new military rulers named a cabinet of civilian technicians Thursday night in an effort to win popular support.

But a civilian group which started the revolt that packed dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez off to exile withheld support from the new regime.

The young civilian street fighters reportedly felt they were not getting recognition from the military junta which took over after Perez Jimenez fled Thursday. Although their intervention was the decisive factor, the military had not taken part in the general strike and fighting which led to the end of the 10-year dictatorship.

Group Demands Changes The civilian group, representing political opinion from rightists to Communists, demanded formation of an interim national union government, general elections as soon as possible, freedom for political parties, guarantees of freedom of expression and arrest of "criminals" of the old regime.

The junta asked two civilians to join its membership, and more changes in its composition appeared a possibility.

However, its leader, Rear Adm. Wolfgang Larrazabal, declared his group would act firmly . . . to avoid and wipe out any attempt to diminish its authority." The junta said it would hold free elections and restore constitutional liberties but set no dates.

Cleans Up Wreckage Caracas, meanwhile, cleaned up the wreckage of fighting which ended with surrender of the last holdouts at secret police headquarters. Reports said 60 bodies were found in the building, about half of them believed to be those of political prisoners held by the hated security forces.

A witness to the 10-hour siege of the headquarters by angry crowds said many of the prisoners were believed killed before the surviving police surrendered to army troops. Tanks protected the police from the aroused mobs, which ransacked the building and also attacked property of Perez Jimenez cohorts at several other points in the city.

The junta ordered the freeing of political prisoners held on "unjust charges," and several hundred had been turned loose.

Over 100 Reported Killed More than 100 other persons had been reported killed in street fighting that began with a general strike Tuesday called by a civilian "patriotic junta" headed by 31-year-old newspaper reporter Fabricio Ojeda. The pitched battles in the streets won over some of the younger military leaders, and at midnight Wednesday military leaders told Perez Jimenez his time was up.

The 43-year-old dictator, his family and some of his closest supporters flew off to exile in the Dominican Republic.

The whereabouts of former Argentine dictator Juan D. Peron remained a mystery. He was re-

U.S., Britain Issue Statements On Experiments With Fusion

Progress Reported In Harnessing of H-Bomb

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Reporter
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Britain reported today both have achieved "fruitful and promising results" in experiments aimed at harnessing the H-bomb reaction to produce industrial electric power.

But both countries, in simultaneously released statements made it clear that any attainment of such an objective is many years away.

At the same time, Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, said the scientific reports released today by the two countries show that "certain comparative observations which have been published in recent weeks about British and U. S. progress in this field . . . have been not only misleading but lacking in any foundation of fact."

Refers to Press Reports
Strauss' statement obviously referred to some British press reports that Britain had forged ahead of the United States in the research several months ago but that Strauss had exerted pressure to delay any announcement of it until the United States could catch up. Strauss denied exerting any effort to suppress the British report.

In a news conference called to make the announcement, Strauss said the two countries are "neck and neck," so close "that there is no difference between them" in the status of their respective research programs.

Dr. Willard F. Libby, another

AEC member, said the progress reported today constitutes a "major step forward," but not a "major breakthrough" in the quest for hydrogen-produced power. Strauss agreed.

The news conference was attended by about a dozen of the American scientists working at various laboratories of the U.S. project.

Today's scientific reports actually showed that each country had achieved a certain result which the other had not.

The United States reported achievement of temperatures higher than those reported by the British — six million degrees centigrade against five million.

The British, on the other hand, reported sustaining the temperatures for a longer period of time — for periods of thousands of a second as compared with millions of a second reported by the Americans.

The higher American temperatures were achieved in particular experiments that began just last month, whereas the British apparently achieved theirs several months before.

Neither country, however, alluded to any significance in such differences in results or time when achieved.

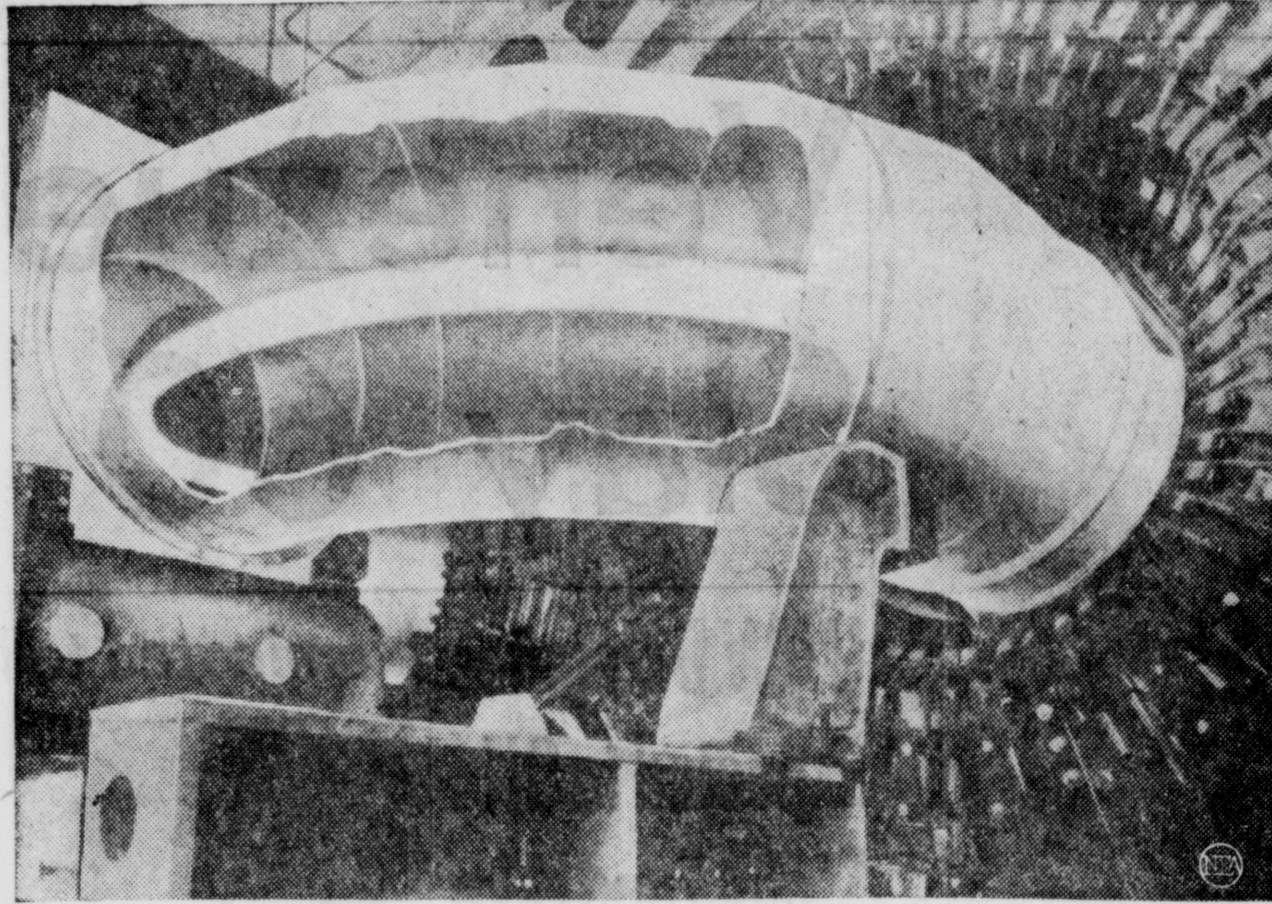

Temperatures of at least 100 million degrees — sustained for perhaps several seconds — would be required to obtain useful power from the hydrogen, or fusion, reaction.

United States officials in today's report also said that an analysis of the British results indicated that in the particular apparatus used by the British, an "unknown process" must be in operation. And the American report added: "How this process behaves under different conditions may be of great importance in the design of a controlled thermonuclear reactor."

The scientific reports released today were timed to coincide with their publication in the British technical journal "Nature" and the American scientific publication "Physical Review."

In addition, there was a press release prepared by the U. K. Atomic Energy authority, and prepared statements by Strauss and by Dr. Arthur E. Ruark, chief of the American research project on harnessing hydrogen power.

Some of the American technical reports were being published in the British journal. The Strauss statement said certain areas in the

TO TAME THE H-BOMB — Temperatures of five million degrees centigrade—hotter than the measured surface temperature of any star — have been created by British scientists in a doughnut-shaped machine, called the Zeta, at Harwell, England. The experiments are designed to show that man can generate electric power from sea water. Jubilant British scientists claim it is the first break-through in the East-West race to harness H-Power. Diagram shows cutaway view of the torus (tube nine feet in diameter) and, on the right, the electrical transformer. The white strip in the center of the tube is not gas being pinched by electrical current. While powerful electrical impulses are being fired through the center of the doughnut (the white strip again) a magnetic field holds the gas molecules away from the walls of the doughnut to keep the container from melting. The apparatus is the fruit of nine years of top-secret research. Its name stands for "Zero Energy Thermonuclear Apparatus."

thermonuclear research field must remain secret in both countries.

The scientific reports were highly technical, but the British press release was livened up by a comparison of one scientific phenomenon to "a neon advertising sign."

Dr. Ruark's analysis of American reports — most of them by scientists of AEC's Los Alamos, N.M. scientific laboratory — was peppered by such statements as these:

If the hydrogen process could be perfected, there would be enough hydrogen in sea water to supply mankind's power requirements for millions of years.

But the problems to be surmounted are twofold:

1. Generating temperatures of 20 to 30 million degrees for a process that would involve the least accessible kind of hydrogen called "tritium" or a temperature of about 400 million degrees for a more accessible kind called "deuterium." Both are heavy forms of hydrogen. Ordinary hydrogen can not be used.

2. "Containing" the hydrogen in gaseous form in a vessel in such a way that the highly heated material would not melt the vessel. Also, the temperature would have to be sustained long enough in the initial stages to start a self-sustaining chain reaction.

Both nations said — as they have previously — that their experiments suggest that they have actually produced fusion reactions, even though for a limited time and at temperatures lower than would be needed on a practical scale. And both indicated that if this were so, it would be an important step in the quest. But both said — as they also have said previously — that they are still not sure that this is the case, and that further experiments will be needed to establish this.

Burglar Receives Slight Profit For Long Labor

CINCINNATI (AP) —A burglar labored long early Thursday but for slight profit.

Police reported a man climbed a six-foot fence at the Kolbe Paint Co. Then he climbed up four floors on a fire escape, broke a window to enter and walked back down the four flights to the main floor. There he rifled the cash register. Then he tried, without success to hammer open a second floor door.

That made it necessary for him to make another trip back up to the fourth floor, back down the fire escape and over the fence.

The loot was 60 cents.

State Continues

Fight Against SUB

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — The state of Ohio was prepared to present more evidence today in defense of its stand that supplemental unemployment benefits (SUB) must be deducted from state unemployment insurance benefits.

Still contending that Mahoning County Common Pleas Court lacks jurisdiction to settle the question, the state put its first witness on the stand late Thursday.

Beaman Pound of Columbus, director of the unemployment compensation division of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, said the BUC Board of Review had considered some disputed cases. He traced the functions to the various review boards.

The state has lost several moves to have the case thrown out of court.

The union is contesting a ruling by James R. Tichenor, BUC administrator, that SUB payments cannot be made to jobless workers in addition to state unemployment compensation.

ALLIANCE — Willy Ley, world-famous authority on rockets and space travel, will speak at a Mount Union College convocation Friday, Feb. 14. The convocation will begin at 10 a.m.

"Space exploration is progressing at such sputnik speed these days that within 10 or 20 years space flight will be an almost everyday occurrence," Ley predicts.

Born in Berlin in 1906, he studied at the Universities of Berlin and Konigsberg in East Prussia, concentrating on paleontology, astronomy and physics.

In 1949 Willy Ley's "The Conquest of Space," illustrated with the famous paintings of Chesley Bonestell, was called "in many respects the most fascinating account of space travel."

Other books published by the author are "The Exploration of Mars" with Werner von Braun written in 1956, "Dragons in Space Travel."

BROTHER AND SISTER MEET FOR FIRST TIME — Mrs. Mary Poulston of Gary, Ind., embraces her brother, Wacław Debicki, 51, on his arrival in New York from Poland aboard the liner America. Debicki is visiting the United States for a long delayed reunion with his mother, Mrs. Martin Gzik, 79, of East Chicago, Ind., who did not make the trip to New York. Mrs. Poulston had never seen her older brother, who had been kidnapped as an infant by a woman hired to help his mother. She later came to America and remarried after the death of Debicki's father. Debicki was finally located but for various reasons was unable to rejoin his mother.

13-Month Year

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Some optimists believe one way to reform the world is to reform the present calendar.

Instead of a 12-month year, they would have us adopt a 13-month year. Each month would be 28 days long for a total of 364 days — and the 365th day would be bonus day for worldwide celebration.

There would be no middle of the week holidays. All holidays would fall on weekends, thus extending these joyous periods to three days.

All such schemes to enhance the happiness of mankind by modifying the calendar, however, have so far fallen flat. Why? Not, perhaps, because of the common man's stubborn resistance to change. The true answer may be this — because the proposed changes don't go far enough. The gains achieved don't seem quite worth the nuisance of the effort required.

If we're going to make a change, why not make a real change? Why not adopt a new calendar with two Friday's instead of one?

This might require a four-day work week instead of the present five-day one, but after all this change requires sacrifice — and this is a sacrifice more and more people seem willing to face.

"Why not two Sundays or two Saturdays instead of two Friday's," someone might well ask. It is true that a week with two Sundays — one for playing golf, one for going to church — holds certain moral advantages. But it also has obvious disadvantages.

What wife wants to cook two Sunday dinners a week? Who has the endurance to watch those Sunday night television shows twice in seven days?

It is even easier to wash out the argument for a week with two Saturdays. Saturday used to be the get-paid-have-a-haircut-take-a-town day. But that was a generation ago.

Today Friday is the glamor day of the week, and Saturday is just a kind of misfit recover-get-well-and-take-the-leaves day which nobody really quite knows what to do with. It is for all those dull little projects you can't get done during the rest of the week.

Double mankind's Fridays and you double mankind's cheer. Double a man's paydays and he will have twice as much fun. He will even willingly pay enough taxes to support his government in the style to which it wants to become accustomed. And, as everybody knows, a happy government makes for happier people.

Single Military Command Exists

The most heavily-applauded statement in President Eisenhower's Chicago speech was his promise to take personal command of the reorganization of the military command setup in Washington.

His listeners may have been moved by a fact specified in the Constitution but ignored by everybody with 10 cents' worth of opinion about military reorganization—that the president of the United States has the ultimate power of command over the armed forces of the United States.

While members of Congress fume and fumble over theoretical schemes for eliminating rivalry and stand-offishness among the denizens of the Pentagon, always with a view to asserting legislative authority over the executive department, the Constitution declares that the president can do everything it would be necessary to do.

He is the commander-in-chief. He can demand all information necessary to enable him to perform his executive duties, including that of being the nation's principal military officer.

It was widely supposed when Mr. Eisenhower became president that his military background would qualify him as an outstanding expert in handling this responsibility. Yet, at the end of five years in the presidency, the five-star general who was able to coordinate the Allied forces in Europe during World War II admits he still hasn't licked the problem of military coordination in Washington.

The fact is that no one ever licked it. President Truman said it had got out of hand in World War II. Every senior military commander in the field at the end of World War II was convinced of the necessity of improvement. While the fighting forces remote from Washington achieved an advanced degree of unification under fire, there was no let-up in the bickering of the chair-bound brass in the Pentagon.

The first order of business at the end of the war was military reorganization. But the same circumstances that created the problem blocked a clean-cut effort to solve it. The reorganization bill enacted in 1947 called for military coordination at the highest command level, instead of reorganization up and down the line.

The question is whether Congress could do any more than this if it tried again now.

The question more to the point is whether Congress again should go through the motions of trying to reach a single-minded decision on a many-sided question that is essentially a problem for the commander-in-chief. He could work it out systematically over a period of years with whatever blanket authorization Congress might need to give him to insure its cooperation in making military appropriations.

There have been periods in merican history when being commander-in-chief of the armed forces of the United States was the least of a president's responsibilities. This is not one of them.

Military expenditures are now a dog-wagging tail in the nation's budget. The country is continuously embroiled in all-out cold war, a battle for survival only slightly less costly than all-out hot war would be.

Dwight Eisenhower's personal attention should be riveted on the toughest responsibility of the presidency until the armed forces have lived down their hurtful reputation for bickering at the expense of the nation's security. Then everybody can applaud.

Not Quite the Same

The steering committee of United Organized Labor in Ohio, which comprises leaders of AFL, CIO, UMW and the railroad brotherhoods, has put out a statement in defense of the union shop which uses this argument:

There is no force or compulsion in a union shop. Joining the union is a condition of employment, just as the requirement to eat lunch at a certain time or to wear certain safety equipment."

The comparison does not hold water. No worker is required to join a private organization to eat his lunch or to wear safety equipment. He does not have to pay dues for lunch-eating and equipment-wearing.

If his employer belongs to a fraternal organization, he does not have to join it and support it to qualify for a job. He does not have to belong to a church, even though a majority of his fellow employees might wish that he belonged.

Yet, other private organizations in this country manage to attract and hold membership on their merits. Unions, with the advantage of laws to give them status no other private organizations ever would aspire to possess, should be able to attract and hold membership on their merits, too.

If Ohio has a showdown on this at the polls next November in a statewide vote on the union shop in this state, the basic issue will be whether or not Ohio workers should have freedom of choice on membership in private organizations.

It will not be on the issue of the "right to work," which is an unfortunate misnomer for the constitutional amendment being proposed to outlaw the union shop in Ohio.

Fire Engine, Anyone?

The Salem fire department, one of the finest equipped of any city of comparable size, also has a relic on its hands, a 28-year-old booster pumper that was retired inconspicuously several years ago.

Crowded out of its stall in the fire department when new apparatus was purchased, the truck has been gathering dust in a corner of the police department garage.

Since the old engine is taking up room needlessly, the city safety department might consider the merits of auctioning it off. Who knows, some antique car fancier with a nostalgia for old-fashioned red fire wagons might be willing to hand over some cold cash in exchange for a fire engine he could call his very own.

Going, going, gone to the man in the red hat!

Once Over

A famous actor was arrested on his wife's complaint for blazing away with a pistol when he returned home at night and found the icebox raided by in-laws, a pot roast having been especially desolated. The question of "massive retaliation" against icebox raiders should ultimately be carried by somebody to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Probably Chief Justice Warren and his associates, like most folks, have known what it means to go to the icebox for a late snack and find in-laws, or even closer relatives, have staged an assault (even a sneak attack) on the vittles. Our bet is that the court would rule, with no dissenting vote by Douglas, that gunfire is justified.

THE ACTOR FIRED one shot into the kitchen china-closet. It seems to us he shows restraint in not firing into the refrigerator raiders. If a man's home is his castle, his icebox is his commissary department. Cold pot roast is a lesser treat. Maybe one shot for its loss is too much, and an ultimatum and exchange of notes would suffice. But artillery action in icebox raids should be specified in accordance with the quality of the snack. For example:

Virginia ham: one bullet, .32 calibre.
Roast chicken: two shots with a .45 calibre gun.

Cold turkey: one volley from heavy artillery.
Nothing left in icebox but a banana and some sliced cucumbers: atomic bomb, complete with fallout.

Last can of beer gone: Intercontinental missile attack.

MANY UNSOLVED MURDERS could probably be traced to icebox raids. We heard of a husband who passed up the dessert with a restaurant dinner, planning on a hunk of strawberry shortcake he had seen at home in the icebox. It was gone when he reached home. Three kids, mother-in-law and a cousin were found dead the next day. He was always suspected. (The actor's wife has withdrawn the charges against her actor husband, as she should. All wives know the icebox is a basic morale builder. It is a husband's Gaza Strip and should be protected as such.)

HENRY FONDA and Anne Bancroft are the only two characters in a new Broadway play. Here's one way of eliminating the problem of an award for the best supporting performance.

Johnnie Ray, after his ear operation, heard his own voice and cried "Don't shoot! I can hear you."

"Aladdin and Wonderful Lamp" on TV will not be the story of a man with a black eye. (We hear the producer is having trouble finding a lamp with a screen personality.)

Edward G. Robinson has remarried after presumably promising to be careful about dropping cigar ashes all over the house.

Overheard in a roadside restaurant, "Waiter is this a steak or guided gristle?"

An airwave commercial boasts a ginger ale that does not suffer from "tired bubbles."

New Connecticut Thruway is getting a boycott, with 25 cent tolls too numerous. In one stretch of less than 5 miles, between West Haven and Madison, there are three toll stations, something of a world record for the distance.

For March Masilio-Robinson fight, contract was between "Basilio Enterprises, Inc." and "Robinson Theaters and Sports Promotion, Ltd." Two corporations slugging it out for supremacy in business ability. May do away with seconds and put boards of directors in boxers' corners.

WITH STOCK MARGINS cut to 50 per cent you can now risk more than you should with less than you have, in the hope of making more than you can.

Few Hollywood movies could get a more inspiring story than the life of William V. Griffin, millionaire financier, who died the other day. A poor boy, he lived in the other side of a four-family house with us at Sulvan Ave. and Ward St. back home. He worked in Malley's department store to pay his way through Yale and it was a battle. But in college he met one of the Brady boys, of the millionaire traction and public utility family, and they became lifelong friends. The chance contact brought him to the top of the Brady interests and into bank, trust company and other industrial positions of leadership. He served the government in war and was oft decorated by the Vatican for religious work. We remember Bill Griffin, a six-foot teen-ager, from the Sylvan Ave. days, when we were schoolmates of his kid brothers John and Eddie.

Comment on Ben Hecht's play "Winklerberg" as a portrait of his pal Max Bodenheim: "If that's a tribute to a dead friend, make mine vanilla."

"Defense Must Not Be a Pawn" . . . Ike

Will It Be Patriotism Or Pork?

By RAYMOND MOLEY

If the eerie screams of political medicine men and the porcine squeals of special interest go on for a few more weeks and the President's patience can hold out, a time will arrive for him to read the nation a blasting lesson in simple patriotism.

For simply because he has eliminated a few stops on the route of the gray train he is being accused of strangling the nation's progress and neglecting its essential resources. No one among his critics seems to realize that the most precious resource we have next to freedom is our national credit and solvency.

None of those who complain admit that the state of international affairs requires priorities. And not one will admit that considering all things the President has presented a pretty fair budget.

Nearly everyone is for his own little bite, here and now, without delay.

A NOTABLE commentator finds everything wrong with the budget requests. He bewails the absence of a federal school construction program. But never, and I am a regular reader of his comments, over the past three years has he presented anything to justify such ad except the phony figures of the Bureau of Education.

He also bitterly complains about "no new starts on water resource developments." But I doubt whether he has been west of the Mississippi River in 15 years except to go to the San Francisco convention.

Another commentator arguing for the National Education Association's plan for $25 - $100 a child from federal funds notes the fact that the Department of Health Education and Welfare request is for about 2 1/2 billion for fiscal 1959 while the total cost of the planned highway program is to be 40 billion dollars.

This is like feeling sorry for a chicken because a horse eats more. It is also comparing one year with several years.

It also neglects the fact that not all of the 40 billion will be federal money.

It also neglects the fact that highways have a lot to do with getting children to school; also, that the request for 1959 is 302 million dollars more than was spent in 1957.

Various pressure associations interested in water resources have made a great clamor over the "no new starts" proposal in the budget. These complaints have met with sympathetic response from some senators and congressmen from the reclamation states, even Republicans.

Two of the major "no new starts" are the Trinity Project in California and the John Day Dam on the Columbia River. Both of these might have been started long ago with the aid of private investors' money under a partnership plan but both have been blocked by Democratic and Republican politicians.

THERE IS nothing strangling in the President's proposals for water resource projects. The budget provides for conservation and development of land and water resources" the sum of 333 million dollars for fiscal 1959 and 309 million for 1958. In 1957 less than 276 million was spent.

Then, of course, farm senators are engaging in the annual head-but against Secretary Benson, who is trying to rationalize supports.

After these special interests have carried on a bit longer the President should really put the case before the country, a case for the priority of national over local purposes and for safety over pork.

He could very well turn the tide of popularity that at the beginning of his sixth year seems to be running against him. There is enough common sense and patriotism left in the country for a warm response to such an appeal.

Retaliation That Hurt

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Sherman Adams Rebuts Charges by Democrats

This is a world of paradoxes—especially the world of politics. For weeks and weeks now, since the "Sputnik" started to circle the earth the Democrats outside of Congress have been castigating the Eisenhower administration for neglect of defense, for failing to have "bold and imaginative ideas" in foreign policy and for failing to exercise "leadership."

Now when Sherman Adams, assistant to the President, makes a lively speech of rebuttal, he is charged with being "partisan," and one leading spokesman for the opposition calls his remarks "mean and cheap."

One wonders what sort of "liberalism" prevails today when the "other side" isn't even supposed to answer back.

For two months now the Democratic partisans have had the field all to themselves. They have demanded the resignation of various Cabinet officers. They have even been calling on President Eisenhower to "resign." Their disregard of courtesy to the President himself has gone beyond the usual limits of partisanship.

In politics a lie repeated without any denial comes to be accepted as truth. There have been so many charges of neglect on the missile issue flung at the administration that it was inevitable an indignant reply would be made. The mystery is why some of the Republicans in Congress haven't made it before this — they apparently are not strong in tactics of counteroffense.

So it remained for Sherman Adams to enter the lists. And he did quite a job in his Minneapolis speech.

HE DIDN'T step down to the level of political combat hailed so exultingly by the Democratic partisans when Harry Truman turns loose one of his "give 'em Hell" speeches. But he did an effective job nevertheless as he said:

"Nowadays, back in Washington, hardly a day goes by but that some armchair strategist intones doom for America. Nor hardly a day goes by but that some political soothsayer first proclaims, then bemoans, American weakness. Disaster is too mild a word to describe our pitiful plight."

"There is an interesting aspect to this. In large measure this professional shuddering comes from those whose attitude about defense has been dictated by political expediency."

"But even so, they ought to know better than to keep on politicking with national defense. As a matter of fact, they ought to be called strictly to account by the American people for using his subject as party glue.

"I'll say simply this: We Republicans greet the opposition on this battlefield with as much anticipation as on any other they can conjure up. In such a contest, we have abundant ammunition."

"We do not need to bring up the military catastrophe of Pearl Harbor nor the scientific catastrophe of losing our atomic secrets. Nor do we need to dwell on policies that led to the Red invasion of Korea nor the plight of our defenses when the invasion began, nor the handcuffs put upon our conduct of that war."

"WE NEED NOT even refer to the tragic loss of China, nor the surrender of positions of freedom throughout the world. We can also ignore at the moment the wasteful and crippling defense planning between World War II and the following war, they couldn't end. Right now, checking back only a year is enough."

Then Mr. Adams reviewed how the Democrats, in control of both houses of Congress, cut military appropriations last year, and he pointed to the failure of the Democrats prior to 1952 "start spending even as little as a million dollars on long-range ballistic missiles."

On the very afternoon before the night when the various political speeches by the Republicans were being delivered last Monday, statements were coming from the Democratic National Committee's advisory council belittling American foreign policy and lambasting the administration on defense matters.

IS ALL THIS politicking "good for the country? Of course not. On the radio every night the Communists make wide use of the sniping comments about the administration's foreign policy uttered by Democrats and other critics. But in a democracy, where free speech and a free press are the rule, all things are discussed and hence the Republicans have the right of reply just as the Democrats have the right of attack.

There's one consolation for the Republicans. Harry Truman says that Gen. Eisenhower was always pretty good prior to 1952 when he—the former president — could tell Ike what to do. This seems to nullify all the nasty things the critics have been saying about Ike's willingness to let Stalin's armies occupy Eastern Europe and take over Berlin and all the agreeing with the other chiefs of staff that Korea was not a defense requirement of prime necessity to the United States.

Evidently these were not his own ideas at all but President Truman's orders. That clears the air—at least until the next salvo comes from the man from Missouri.

Needing the Economy

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK — The Federal Reserve Board is needing a sagging economy again and with some success in making money easier. But it has yet to use its biggest shot in the arm—freeing more bank reserves for loans to business and individuals.

And it's too early to tell if relaxing credit will be the medicine needed to halt the business slump. Some think there was too much delay in applying the needles and that those used—cutting the discount rate and lowering stock market margins—were too small.

Some think industry is nursing ills that easy money can soothe but cannot cure by itself alone. The Fed, as financial circles call the Federal Reserve System, has three chief means of regulating the supply of money and credit.

The one it is using today is to lower the discount rate. That means that member banks can borrow from Federal Reserve banks at either 2 1/2 or 3 per cent depending on which of the 2 regional banks they go to. They can use these funds in turn to lend to business.

The action needed commercial banks in New York and Philadelphia into trimming downward the rates they charge business. It also led to falling interest charges on short term loans, such as the rate the U. S. Treasury pays when it borrows. And it made it easier and cheaper for corporations to float new debt issues.

But lowering interest charges furnishes very little new money for the commercial banks to lend to business or to individuals.

Two other measures the Federal Reserve System can use have more direct bearing on the supply of credit.

One is the buying or selling of U. S. securities in the open market. So far it has used this tool only along seasonal patterns. By buying in December the Fed gave banks more funds to tide business over its big Christmas borrowing needs. When the Fed buys, the money it gives the seller is deposited at once in the banks, giving them more funds.

By selling during January the Fed could mop up some of the excess money pouring back into the banks as businessmen and individuals paid their bills.

The third and largest tool is to cut the amount of reserves that member banks must keep with Federal Reserve banks. In New York and Chicago they must keep 20 per cent of their deposits there. In 48 other large cities banks must tie up 18 per cent of their funds. In the smaller cities bank reserves are 12 per cent.

Banks for a long time have been clamoring for the Fed to lower these reserve rules and to cut the differentials between the big cities and the small. The American Bankers Assn. wants the reserves cut to a uniform 10 per cent on checking deposits, with different rules applying to reserves against savings accounts.

Cutting reserves would do more than just freeing some of the money held in the Federal Reserve banks. Bankers figure for each $1 of freed reserves they can make $5 to $6 in loans.

Thought For Today

It is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or is made weak. — Romans 14:21.

So act that your principle of action might safely be made the law for the whole world. — Immanuel Kant.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

There was many a slip between the steak and the lip at the Mafia's grand council barbecue in Apalachin, N. Y. Apparently the c o u n c i l s kept notes on these slips — and one of these pieces of paper fluttered from the pockets of a fleeing grandee as he plunged through the Victor Riesel woods after a truck-driving fishmonger arrived with word that the police would soon surround the mansion and its 5-car garage.

The slip said "Parlato." Roughly, this means "already discussed." There followed two items. One referred tersely to Havana gambling. The other was Joe (Sok) Lanza's name. He's the fellow, now seeking parole from prison, who controls New York's fish market, the world's greatest.

This slip of paper is in the hands of New York State authorities who believe that among the items that soon would have been added to the "already discussed" agenda was labor racketeering on projects costing hundreds of millions of dollars.

THE FIGURE could reach a billion. These vast sums are financing construction projects affecting much of the northern U. S. — over a stretch which would take any old Sputnik some 10 minutes to traverse.

I refer to dams, tunnels, aqueducts, military airports, complex new roads systems and the St. Lawrence Seaway which will create a sealane from northern Europe to Minnesota on the Great Lakes. This latter project alone calls for the expenditure of more than 600 million dollars.

Out of these funds will come vast amounts of wages for tens of thousands of men reaching from northern New York right across the lakes.

The projects are just the type which the labor section of the Mafia grand council would scarcely overlook. These boys do what comes naturally, it was suspected by New York State Commissioner of Investigations Arthur Reuter.

Though small-staffed, Commissioner Reuter has discovered that a network has been operating in the areas around the projects which will bring New York City cascading new water supplies and around the construction of military airfields. It has been learned that Commissioner Reuter now is probing a network — within — in the network which has been moving in on the northern New York counties.

RISE OF THE PUBLIC DEBT—Newschart above shows how the public debt has risen almost steadily in the last 20 years. The present debt, $274,250,766,593, is perilously close to the statutory limit of 275 billion dollars. So Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson, has requested Congress for a five-billion-dollar temporary debt limit increase.

ning are Mrs. Sally Hill co-chairman, Mrs. Aline Isaksson and Mrs. Rhoda Heck. Columbiana operates in the Mahoning County Heart Fund territory since no such organization is set up in Columbiana County.

Prison Parolee, 94, Looking Forward To Next 25 Years

CLEVELAND — Released from Ohio Penitentiary after serving 30 years for murder, Jonn Morgan, 94, is looking forward to the next 25 years.

The sprightly Morgan sat on a cot at the Salvation Army dormitory here Thursday night sewing a suspender button on his trousers and told newsmen:

"I just got in and I have things to do." The Salvation Army has agreed to watch over the aged parolee.

The oldest inmate in the prison, Morgan was set free in Columbus Thursday. He was placed on a bus and returned here, where he was convicted in 1928 for the slaying of junk dealer, Jacob Rosenberg.

Insisting that he did not kill the junk dealer Morgan said he was "not mad at the state" for the time he spent in prison. The he spoke of the future.

"I won't look anybody up. I don't need anybody. If I had any relatives I wouldn't need them to take care of me. I'll find another place to live. I can make all the friends I need."

"Mister, I can certainly take care of myself. Why, I'm good for another 25 years yet."

He insists he has plenty of money. But his only apparent assets are the new suit he got when he left prison, a check for $358.40 for the work he did while he was in prison and a box containing personal items — a sewing kit, a cracked mirror and an alarm clock.

Expert Says Turbojets May Be Used in Rockets

CINCINNATI — A General Electric Co. expert believes a recoverable turbojet engine, such as those made in the GE plant here, may replace first-stage rockets in future missiles and space ships.

The opinion came from John B. Montgomery, general manager of the General Electric gas turbine engine division here, who said in a prepared statement:

"Once the missile or space vehicle has been accelerated through the dense layers of air near the earth's surface, then a rocket engine would take over the job of propelling it the rest of the way."

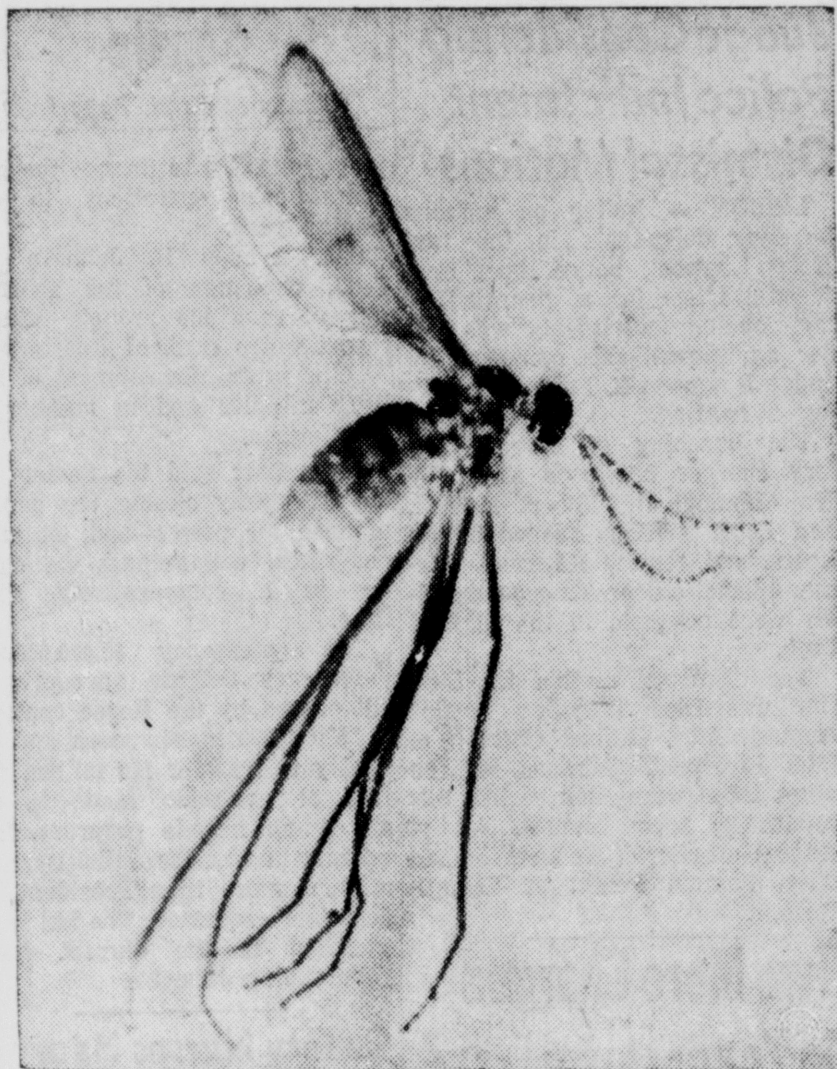

Montgomery said a rocket engine must carry its own oxygen as well as fuel while "a turbojet takes its oxygen out of the air as it goes and so does not have to overcome the inertia of its own supply of oxygen at launching or carry aloft the added weight of oxygen like a rocket."

DIES IN ACCIDENT

CLEVELAND — A three-car passenger train struck a car at the Eaot 164th St. crossing of the Erie railroad Thursday killing the driver, Lovest Watson, 44.

IMMIGRANT — A privileged character is this Aphidoletes Thompsoni, who figuratively wears a "don't swat me" label. The "skeeter" is one of 1,800 imported from Czechoslovakia and colonized in Oregon and Washington to combat the balsam wooly aphid which causes gout-like swellings in silver fir. This unusual close-up photo of a "skeeter" in flight was taken by the Pacific Northwest Forest and Ranger Experiment Station.

Bowling Green Registers 73-72 Conquest Over Detroit

Unusual Finish Decides Game For Falcons

By The Associated Press
Four Ohio college basketball games were on tap Thursday night and in all of them the home teams posted victories.

Bowling Green headed the list with an unusual finish to its 73-72 conquest of Detroit.

With the score knotted 72-72 and one second remaining in the game, a Titan player called a timeout—Detroit's sixth of the evening. Since only five time-outs are allowed, the officials awarded a free throw to the Falcons and Jim Darrow sank the important shot.

The free throw also ran Darrow's point production to 30 for the evening.

In an Ohio Conference battle, Wittenberg remained unbeaten and the leader in the conference by turning back Muskingum 64-49. The Lutherans are 7-0 in the conference and 11-2 for the season.

The Muskies reaped some honors from the game, their third loss in seven loop tilts, as Bill Frazier scored 19 points to lead the scorers. Muskingum has an 8-4 over all record.

In Athens, Ohio University averaged an earlier defeat and posted their seventh victory in their last eight games, 71-57 over Morehead State. The Bobcats at one point in the second half enjoyed a 22-point lead.

The game put both teams at 9-5 marks.

Findlay was the only other team in action and the Oilers dumped Huntington of Indiana 106-89 for their ninth win in 11 games.

Scoring honors for the game went to Huntington's Tom Rethlake who poured in 17 field goals and three free throws for 37 points. Little Rio Grande, which gained national importance from 1952 to 1954 with his Bevo Francis, was back in the news, but this time for not playing a game.

An apparent mixup in dates had fans waiting at Institute, W. Va. for the West Virginia State-Rio Grande game Thursday night, but the Redmen failed to put in an appearance.

Prospect, McKinley, Reilly Win Contests

Prospect beat St. Paul's 40-20, Reilly nipped Furt 32-30 and McKinley edged Buckeye 27-25 in Mickey McGuire League basketball games played this week.

Fourteen men saw action for the Prospect eagles who raced to a 14-6 first quarter lead and stretched it to 23-6 at the half. St. Paul failed to score in the second frame.

Wayne Washington was high man for the victors with 14, while Dick Barrett and DeRienzo had six each for the losers.

Three players hit in the double figures in Reilly's win over Furt. Huber led the way with a dozen tallies, while Ted Chappell collected 10 for Reilly.

Bauman was high for the losers with 10.

Reilly led at the half 14-12 and by 26-22 after three cantos.

Dave Cozad and Jim Anderson scored 23 points between them to lead McKinley past Buckeye. Cozad had 13 and Anderson 10.

Walker led the losers with 12 points.

McKinley trailed 17-15 going into the last quarter but rallied to outscore their foes 12-8 in the frame to cop the decision.

HE'S THE HUNTED — Dave Nicholson, right, whose favorite pastime, other than baseball, is hunting, is the hunted this week. The 18-year-old outfielder is being pursued by major league scouts with bonus offers nearing $100,000. General Manager Frank Lane of the Cleveland Indians authorized a bonus offer of $80,000, largest in the team's history, for Dave, who became eligible to sign a contract when his high school class graduated Jan. 23. With the young star in their St. Louis home is his brother, John.

Indians Plan to Go As High As $88,000 For Young Slugger

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The nation's high schools are full of big strong boys who can wallop a baseball, but the major league clubs see something special in Dave Nicholson.

So many big league scouts are knocking on his door with bonus offers there's practically a traffic jam.

"We could have held a major league meeting," said Glen Miller, farm director for the Chicago White Sox. It's really high powered competition.

Dave is 18, tops six feet by three inches and weighs 217. His parents expect to announce Sunday which offer he'll accept.

Fourteen clubs are after Dave. The Cleveland Indians announced they will go as high as $80,000 in the bonus bidding.

Vice President Charlie Grimm of the Chicago Cubs arrived today with instructions to go the limit. The Baltimore Orioles have been reported talking in terms of $100,000.

"I won't say how much the White Sox bid, but it was so high it scared me," Miller said.

What does Dave have to inspire such spirited bidding? "Nicholson could become a star," said Walter Shannon, Cardinal farm director. "And if he does, he could become a great star. He's built like an ox."

Frank Lane, Cleveland's general manager, said Nicholson has certain weaknesses, including just average speed and an average arm, but:

"The boy is an outstanding prospect. He has the makings of a great home run hitter."

The scramble at the Nicholson home has become so fierce Dave's father, Lawrence Nicholson, took time off from his job as a printer to help appraise the offers.

Leading the Lutherans is 6-5 center Mike Outcalt, the loop's top scorer with 211 points. He is also ranked third in rebounding with an average of 15 grabs a contest.

Harry "Bones" Baird of Salem, one of the most brilliant guards in the Conference, will head the Mount attack. He has gathered 130 points, an average of 16.7 points a game.

Center Bill Roof of Poland, is second in the Raider scoring with 117 points and tops the rebounders with 84 to his credit.

'B' GAMES POSTPONED
All Class B city league basketball games scheduled for next Tuesday have been postponed until Saturday, Feb. 1, to allow fans to attend the Salem-Youngstown South game in Youngstown, Charles "Rusty" Tomlinson, assistant manager of the Memorial Building said today.

Sports Sketches

By GORDON ARNDT

Within the past seven days, Salem High cage fans were given a good look at the scoring potential possessed by the 1957-58 edition of the Quakers.

During that period the locals clobbered three opponents by the cumulative score of 264 to 178. This is an average of 88.0 to 59.3.

Undoubtedly one of the most encouraging things for Coach John Cabas has been the point production rendered by one of his 5-9 senior guards, Bob "Butch" Platt.

In these three contests, the smooth floor general has combined his natural ability at court strategy with a slick shooting eye to carry him into the books as one of Salem's three major scorers.

PLATT IS CURRENTLY averaging 12.1 points per game while the Quakers' other "point men," Bill Pauline and Moe Meissner, are averaging 15.4 and 14.0, respectively.

Adding insult to an opponent's defense along with these three seniors has been the point making of Lou Slaby. The 6-2 junior has tallied 80 points in 10 games for an 8.0 average.

Whereas Slaby is not noted as a scorer in the sense that Pauline, Meissner and Platt are, the cager can lay claim to being responsible for 30 per cent, if not more, of the rebounds that fly off the pair of backboards during the 32 minutes of courtwood action.

IN MUCH THE SAME manner that Platt has been warranting notices because of his scoring, Slaby has been attracting attention as the result of his board work.

A team must have the ball to score, and playing a prominent role in this department has been Salem's other starter, 6-5 John Sturgeon. Although "Stretch" is only averaging 4.7 a game, his place under the boards with Slaby and Pauline provides the Red and Black with better than adequate rebound coverage.

Cabas this year has also been blessed with a strong bench.

SUPPLEMENTING THE starting quintet, are Clyde Marks, Dan Krichbaum, Darryl Adams and Woody Deitch. With these athletes, Cabas has a "triple trio" that has helped to carry the Quakers along a 10-game victory trail.

Marks takes over for the removed rebounders, while the other three fill vacancies in the guard positions.

The varsity picture would not be complete without mention of three other players who have seen their share of duty this season.

They are all sophomores, Jim Lehwald, Dave Hunter and Ed Yates. The three have totaled 21 points in 10 games.

Salem is averaging 70.6 a game to its opponent's 52.8.

The squad, of course, has made its mistakes. In the second half

Sugar Ray 7-5 Underdog Against Basilio

CHICAGO (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson is unimpressed that he is an early 7-5 underdog for his March 25 middleweight encore with champion Carmen Basilio at Chicago Stadium.

"I think I've been the underdog ever since I started making comebacks," he said. "Maybe once I wasn't — that was against Tiger Jones, and, wow! Did that guy give me a licking. But I like being the underdog. It takes the pressure off."

The Jones pounding was the only time Robinson has lost in Chicago Stadium. He won the 160-pound title there from Jake LaMotta in 1951 and twice regained it in the same ring.

"I like the officiating in Chicago very much," he said after formal contract-signing ceremonies. "I have no beefs about officiating elsewhere, but I just like it here especially."

Basilio couldn't be as enthusiastic. He lost his welterweight crown two years ago to Johnny Saxton in a highly controversial decision at Chicago Stadium. He also lost there to Chuck Davey and Billy Graham.

"I expect to have a change of luck this time," he said. "If I fight the same kind of fight I did last time, I should win again."

Basilio took Robinson's title on a split 15-round decision Sept. 23 at Yankee Stadium in New York.

Del Ennis Reportedly Given Slight Raise

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Power hitter Del Ennis of the St. Louis Cardinals, second in the National League last year in runs batted in with 105, has been given a slight raise in pay to a reported $37,000.

The 22-year-old outfielder, who got off to a poor start at the plate last season but finished with a .286 average and 24 home runs, made a hurry-up trip to St. Louis Thursday to sign his 1958 contract.

Liverpool, England—Hogan Bassey, 128, Nigeria, outpointed Pierre Cossemeyns, 128, Belgium 10 (non-title).

Quakerettes To Meet Canton Team Saturday

The Salem Quakerettes basketball team will be seeking their first win of the season Saturday night when they play hosts to an all-Negro girls team from Canton.

The Quakerettes have been beaten in all three previous starts this year, twice by a Cleveland quintet and by a 38-37 score from the same Canton squad.

The contest will begin at 8 p.m. in the Memorial Building. Admission is free.

Members of the Salem team are Janet Reeder, Betty McKenna, Mickey Cope, Bat Boso, Nancy Baird, Thelma Dyke and Ann Davis.

The Quakerettes next game will be Feb. 1 on the high school floor against a Steubenville squad.

Quaker Freshmen Trip Canfield 32-29

Although outscored from the field 12-8, the Salem High freshmen made 16 of 23 foul shots to defeat a stubborn Canfield cage team yesterday at Canfield 32-29. The young Cardinals could muster only five of 17 charity flings, which cost them the win.

Fred Harshman hit on four fielders and four fouls for 12 points to pace the Quakers, while teammate Joe Zamarilli hit for 8.

Koning took all scoring laurels with 14 for the losers.

YOUR INCOME TAX PRIMER: Chapter Ten

Medical and Child Care Deductions

By RICHARD A. MULLENS
Before a taxpayer can decide whether to itemize deductions or claim the standard deduction he must determine what medical, child care, casualty and other deductions he can add to the deductions covered in the previous article of the Income Tax Primer.

Deductions for Medical Expenses

To determine your deductible medical expenses, you should first separate all amounts spent in 1957 for medicine and drugs because such amounts are subject to a special rule. Then add up all amounts paid for medical or dental care, including all the items described on page 9 of the official instructions.

Amounts paid for medicines and drugs can only be included in the deduction to the extent they exceed 1 per cent of your adjusted gross income. This is so regardless of age of either you or your wife.

IF, HOWEVER, either you or your wife was 65 on or before Jan. 1, 1958 the remainder of your expenditures for medical and dental care for either of you can be deducted in full up to a maximum dollar limit.

If neither you nor your wife was 65 on or before Jan. 1, 1958, then your medical and dental expenses must first be reduced by 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income and you can deduct only the remainder subject to a maximum dollar limit.

The maximum dollar limit on the amount of medical expense deduction is:

$5,000 on a joint return or return of a head of household, if two exemptions are claimed; $7,500 if three exemptions are claimed; and $10,000 if four or more exemptions are claimed.

On a separate return of a taxpayer not the head of a household, $2,500 if one exemption is claimed, and $5,000 if two or more exemptions are claimed.

In determining the limit on medical expenses, do not count the extra exemption for old age or blindness.

Keep in mind that you can include any medical dental or drug expenditures you make on behalf of either a dependent or one you could have claimed as a dependent if he had had gross income in 1957 of less than $600.

If you or your wife were 65 or over in 1957, amounts paid by you for medical or dental care of your dependents can only be included to the extent they exceed 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income.

Deductions for child care:

The so-called child care deduction for working mothers has several restrictions. For one thing, even though you qualify for the deduction, you cannot claim it and the standard deduction too. Like other personal deductions, it can only be deducted if you itemized on page 2 of Form 1040. Child care expenses are now deducted under the heading of "Other Deductions."

THE ONLY PEOPLE entitled to this deduction are women (including working wives) and men (provided they are widowers, legally separated or divorced) who, in order to be gainfully employed, must pay for the care of one or more of the following described dependents:

A son, daughter, or stepchild who is under 12 years of age or any dependent who is physically or mentally unable to care for himself.

A taxpayer is considered to be gainfully employed if he is working for someone else is self-employed, or is looking for work. For any one year, you cannot deduct more than $600 for such expenses regardless of how much more you actually spent. If you spent less than $600 for care of the dependent while you are "gainfully employed" then you can only deduct the amount spent.

THE AMOUNT OF the deduction is subject to two further limitations if you are a working wife. These two limitations do not apply, however, to a working wife whose husband is incapable of self-support because of a mental or physical disability. The limitations are:

1. The working wife must file a joint return with her husband, and

2. Her dependent's care deduction must be reduced by the amount by which the adjusted gross income on the joint return exceeds $4,500. For example, if she has spent $500 for dependent's care while she was "gainfully employed" and the adjusted gross income on the joint return was $4,650, her deduction would be reduced by $150 ($4,650 minus $4,500) to $350.

Do not include in the deduction any amounts paid for a child or other dependent's care to someone who is also your dependent for tax purposes. Thus, if a widower pays his 17-year-old daughter $60 a month to stay home and take care of his younger children, he is not entitled to a $500 child care expense deduction for those payments.

Deductions for casualty losses:

Property losses caused either by a casualty or theft can be shown on page 2 of Form 1040 even though the property is for your own personal use. Casualty losses include damage from fire, storm, flood, lightning, hurricane and other sudden, unexpected or unusual causes. Thus damages from a bursting boiler or frozen pipes would be a casualty loss.

YOU CAN DEDUCT damages to your car caused by a collision unless the collision was due to your willful negligence. Faulty driving is not classed as willful negligence, but driving while intoxicated is so classified.

The amount of the loss or damage to be deducted should be computed in accordance with the official instructions on page 10.

If you have difficulty determining the fair market value of the property both before and just after the loss, as required by the instructions, remember that such things as repair bills, insurance adjuster's estimates, and police or fire department records are good evidence of the amount of your loss.

A loss from a casualty or from theft should be deducted in the year the loss occurred. If you are covered by insurance, the loss must be reduced by any recovery.

IF YOUR CASUALTY LOSS in 1957 exceeds your 1957 income you can deduct the excess from your 1955 and 1956 incomes and get a refund. Do this by filing a claim on a form you can get from your District Director of Internal Revenue.

Examples of items that can also be deducted in the "Other Deductions" schedule are:

1. Expenses of earning your salary or wage. Any ordinary and necessary expenses in your line of work are deductible. This includes dues, initiation fees and assessments to labor unions, and professional societies; entertainment of customers to promote specific deals and not just for general good will; uniforms, work clothes and costumes required in your work and that do not replace your own ordinary clothing; safety equipment, tools and supplies necessary and customary in your work.

2. Alimony paid regularly, but not necessarily at fixed intervals, under court order. You cannot deduct any sums specifically designated for the support of your minor children.

3. Cost of management, maintenance and conservation of property held for investment. This includes cost of a safety deposit box for your securities.

4. Fees or expenses incurred in preparing your income tax return.

Guarding Your Health

Auto Accident Prevention

The medical profession, public officials, the automobile industry and many private organizations and individuals are united in the belief that we must do many things to reduce the toll of deaths and injuries from highway accidents. Deaths from motor vehicle accidents run to about forty thousand per year in the United States alone, with many more in Canada and elsewhere. The injuries, many of them extremely serious, count up to many times that number annually.

MANY LINES OF ATTACK are open but only a few can be mentioned here. Of course, highway and motor car design are important. And speeding has long been recognized as one of the factors involved in motor vehicle accidents.

I recently received a communication from the Safe Winter Driving League, which is interested particularly in scientific research for winter road maintenance against snow and ice and what the individual driver under winter conditions should do.

Among other things, the communication pointed out that snow tires are a big help in loose snow and slush but not of much value on ice and hard packed snow. For the latter tire chains with cross links reinforced by teeth or cleats are the most effective means of improving traction.

CERTAINLY, until and if the time ever comes when motor vehicles will be propelled by robots and controlled by automatic radar or similar devices, the human driver will continue to be the major factor leading toward, or preventing, accidents.

Unfortunately, all of us who drive are dependent not only on ourselves but also on everyone else on the road. For this reason there is no better rule for drivers than the Golden Rule.

SIX SIMPLE "Safety Prescriptions" have been sent out by the Fraternal Order of Police. These are:

- 1) The difference between reckless and wreckless is alertness. When you drive, stay alert and stay alive!
- 2) Make sure you are sufficiently rested before taking the wheel. Don't drive after too little sleep or too much exertion.
- 3) Don't set yourself an impossible driving schedule. Drive for safety, not for distance.
- 4) On trips, stop at intervals for a coffee break, and have a cup or two before driving home from a party. Drowsiness can be disastrous.
- 5) Keep a car window open and fresh air circulating at all times; otherwise your car heater could put you to sleep — permanently.
- 6) Alcohol and gasoline make a deadly mixture. Keep them separate and keep on living.

Ohio Township Officials Open Convention

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Hundreds of Ohio township officials focus their attention today on what some feel is the harmful practice by big municipalities of grabbing off unincorporated areas through annexation.

A talk by Columbus Atty. Thomas W. Applegate on "The Impact of Annexation on Townships" is expected to trigger a general discussion on the subject at today's session of the 30th annual convention of the Ohio State Assn. of Township Trustees and Clerks.

Charles P. Baker Jr., secretary-treasurer of the association, said among township officials is that "should be partners, not competitors in local government."

"Our position," Baker said, "is that this is a two-way street. The rising costs are hitting the townships as well as the municipalities. Stripping the townships for the benefit of the municipalities is going to make it worse. The problems of local government must be solved on an over-all basis instead of concentration on municipal financial problems alone."

Speakers at Thursday's opening session included Atty. Gen. William Saxbe and Meade Baltz, director of the Illinois Assn. of Township Trustees and Clerks. Chief Justice Carl V. Weyandt of the Ohio Supreme Court spoke at a banquet Thursday night.

The convention ends Saturday. About 1,750 township officials are attending.
